REPORT BROWNING WON SEPARATION SUIT

DECISION GIVEN IN NEW YORK AMERICAN WOULD BAR ALIMONY

Report Of Verdict Not Confirmed at Trial
Scene

NEWBURG, N. Y., March 15.—Supreme Court Justice A. H. F. Seeger has completed his decision in the joint separation suits of Edward W. Browning and his wife, "Peaches" Heenan Browning, it was learned today.

No confirmation could be obtained early today of a published story that "Daddy" Browning had won his suit and that "Peaches" had lost her counter suit.

The decision may be filed today or tomorrow at White Plains, N. Y., or at Carmel, N. Y.

NEW YORK, Mar. 15.—The New York American in a copyrighted article today stated that Edward W. "Daddy" Browning has won the separation suit he brought against his wife, the former "Peaches" Heenan. The article stated that "Daddy" had won his suit and that "Peaches" had lost her counter suit.

"Elaborate precautions to prevent any leaks in the decision did not succeed in keeping the American from obtaining authoritative advance information of its contents."

"Justice Seeger repelled any suggestion that he make the decision public except by filing it at Carmel." In order to protect its secrecy until it should be actually on file he planned to give it to the exhibits in the case to a trusted messenger only.

"The next move in the case will be for John E. Mack, of Poughkeepsie, the successful lawyer in the case, to prepare findings of fact and conclusions of law in accordance with Justice Seeger's opinion. Alternative findings may be submitted by Henry Epstein, lawyer for 'Peaches.' The findings adopted by Justice Seeger will become the formal decision."

"Justice Seeger's dismissal of 'Peaches' separation suit will compel her, if she desires future support from 'Daddy,' to offer to come back to him on his own terms. He is at liberty to decline the offer."

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

COLUMBUS, March 15.—Fifteen years old Mary O'Hara, is in Mt. Carmel hospital with a self-inflicted bullet wound near her heart. According to police reports the girl attempted suicide today because of her recent poor grades in high school. Her condition is critical, the hospital reported.

LEARN ONE NEW THING EACH DAY

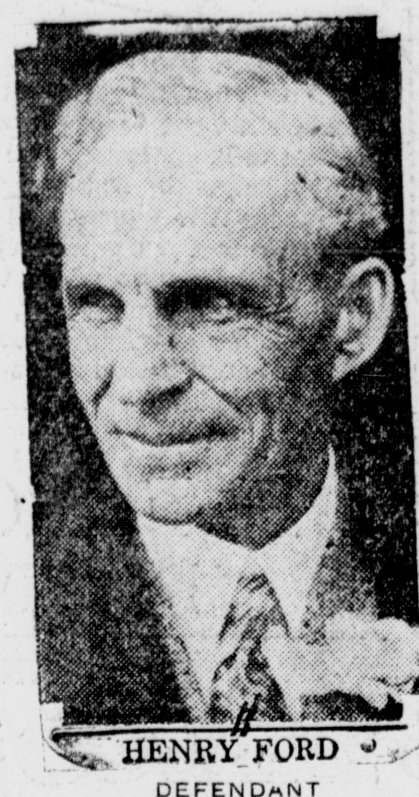

DAYTON, O., March 15.—Rudolph Umlauf, 38, a resident of Dayton, was in possession of some valuable new knowledge today, which cost him $100.

Rudolph, arraigned in Municipal court on a charge of unlawful possession of whiskey, offered a unique alibi.

He told Judge Powell that he did not know it was a violation of the law to drink whiskey or to possess it.

The court explained about the more or less well-known Volstead act to Rudolph, and imposed the $100 fine to make the explanation impressive.

FEDERAL BUILDING, Detroit, Mich., March 15.—With justice smiling upon him for the second time in as many days, Henry Ford won another round today in the $1,000,000 libel suit brought against him by Aaron Sapiro, Chicago attorney.

The point was won when Federal Judge Fred S. Raymond overruled a motion by attorney for Sapiro to eliminate Ford's "plea of justification" on the ground it violated an earlier court order.

The decision gave Ford wide latitude in presenting his defense to the libel suit, which was based upon a series of articles, published in the Dearborn Independent, at the time of the trial.

"Elaborate precautions to prevent any leaks in the decision did not succeed in keeping the American from obtaining authoritative advance information of its contents."

"The next move in the case will be for John E. Mack, of Poughkeepsie, the successful lawyer in the case, to prepare findings of fact and conclusions of law in accordance with Justice Seeger's opinion. INTERFERENCE MAY BE FIRST CONCERN OF RADIO SULTANS

Commission Will Study
Situation In Middle West

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Radio went on the official operating table today—the surgical process may be both brutal and painful but according to predictions the industry will survive.

The federal radio commission, appointed by President Coolidge to formulate policies for bringing broadcasting and radio telegraphy under government control, held its initial meeting at the commerce department.

Its first concern was the complicated problem of checking interference. Officials admitted that the radio listeners, numbering probably 20,000,000 nightly, will find no real should be administered. The commission will be made in interference elimination during the summer.

Public hearings probably will be started shortly by the commission to get a bird's-eye view of the situation from the standpoint of broadcasters, commercial radio interests and listeners, all of whom have specific ideas as to how regulations should be administered. The commission will have the benefit of plenty of advice.

Special studies will be made in the north-east, midwest section centering in Chicago, and on the Pacific coast. All of these districts are marked by an over-abundance of broadcasting stations. Especially in the middle-west have listeners suffered. Caught in a double-cross current of programs sweeping their district from every direction, reception there has been chiefly a whitening of the eye.

Consideration of individual applications for broadcasting licenses probably will not be taken up at once by the commission.

tacking Sapiro's activities in organizing farmers co-operative associations.

FEDERAL BUILDING, Detroit, March 15.—The most amazing civil trial in recent years got under way in federal court here today with the drawing of a jury to sit in judgment on the $1,000,000 libel suit brought against Henry Ford by Aaron Sapiro, noted attorney and agricultural organizer.

Sapiro sued America's first billionaire for a million-dollar damage on the ground that he was libeled by articles published in Ford's Dearborn Independent. The case grew directly out of Ford's campaign against news, which was diverted into a steady hammering upon Sapiro's nationwide activities in organizing farmers' co-operatives. The trial will describe an arc that staggers the imagination. The issue, already drawn, involves the history of co-operative marketing throughout America, alleged communistic movement in the West, the field of national politics and lastly, the freedom of the press.

As court convened, Federal Judge Fred S. Raymond was prepared to render an opinion on a motion by Sapiro's attorneys to eliminate Ford's "plea of justification" on the ground it did not support the auto king's charges. With the plea eliminated, it was said, only a legal miracle could save Ford from losing the case as his defense would have to be based on generalities.

The ramifications of the trial will extend into every state of the Union while scores of political leaders will become involved. The articles, which Rosenwald, Eugene Meyer, Jr., Bernard M. Baruch, Otto Kahn, and Albert D. Lasker as his associates in the co-operative movements. The articles specifically charged that a Jewish ring sought to implant communistic theories in the minds of American farmers.

The case has cost Sapiro a fortune so far while reports were current here that Ford already has spent $1,000,000 preparing his defense. The auto king incidentally could settle for six cents by admitting the libels but he decided to fight the case to a finish. The suit was filed two years ago, testimony has been taken in a dozen states since then and the trial probably will last a month.

The presence of Senator James A. Reed (D., Mo., of shush fund fame, as one of Ford's attorneys, lent color to the case. Reed however, remained in the background during the preliminaries.

The whereabouts of Ford, who was called as a witness by Sapiro, also became a topic of interest. Defense Counsel said they would produce Ford if the court ordered him to attend as a witness against himself. Sapiro's attorneys said they would have him adjudged in contempt of court if he did not appear. There the matter rested for the moment.

Sapiro brought the suit upon twenty-one counts and specified 141 instances, in which he alleged that Ford had libeled him.

Hills scheduled to be called up in the senate this afternoon on the question of passage include: Collier bill providing for licensing motor vehicle operators; the Marshall bill, providing for admission of children at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, Xenia; the Morgan bill, providing that inheritance taxes shall be collected on intangible property only in the state of the decedent's domicile when the state of the domicile has a similar law of reciprocity; the Herbert bill providing that unclaimed autos, motorcycles and bicycles held by police may be sold in ninety days; the Reche bill providing that owners of property to be assessed for street lighting or for construction of sewers in municipalities shall be notified by mail as well as by publication.

school here until the morning of her disappearance. At first it was believed that she might have gone to visit relatives in Connecticut, Virginia or Texas, and police in these places were notified to look for her.

The girl's father left immediately for Hudson Falls, whence Mary was taken from Lake George, to bring her home.

Mary, who looks much older than she really is, had been using the name of Charlotte Blake, according to telephonic advices from Hudson Falls. Howard Towers, clerk of a hotel there, said:

"My suspicions were aroused when I read the descriptions of the missing Miss Cabell in the newspapers. My suspicions were confirmed when she registered with out baggage. I told her that it was customary to pay in advance, as she gave me a $10 bill. 'Take on for two or three days,' was his only comment."

"Mary, soon after she registered, went to the station agent and inquired the price of a ticket to Hollywood. When she was told it would be about $150 she made a wry face, but offered no comment. The station agent told me about the beautiful blonde who made the inquiry and between the two of us we deduced that she must be the missing Mary."

"When I put the question right to her, she did not deny her identity."

"The convention to date has taken no official action relative to the wage scale, but union officials unanimously expressed a determination to stand by the refusal of the miners' wage negotiators to accept any reduction of pay."

Whether or not any definite peace proposal would come out of a conference of eastern Ohio coal operators scheduled for today in Cleveland, the miners here indicated, depended entirely upon the question of the operators seeking a joint conference.

CLEVELAND, O., Mar. 15.—Directors of the Ohio Coal Operators' Association will hold their regular meeting here tomorrow.

S. H. Robbins, president of the association, said the board would probably discuss the new competitive wage scale which the operators claim must be accepted by the miners' union if mines in the eastern part of the state are to be kept open after April 1.

SHANGHAI, March 15.—The city of Wuhu today was reported to have fallen into the hands of some kind of a Kuomintang (nationalist) committee. All the civil authorities evacuated the city after mobs had entered the offices.

PROSECUTOR HENRY
HARTER AND SLATER
CALL ON M'DERMOTT

Hope To Get Comment
From Pat On Mazer
Confession

CANTON, O., March 15.—Stark County Prosecutor Henry Harter Jr., will meet Detective Ora Slater, of Cincinnati, in Columbus today, where an attempt will be made to obtain information from Pat McDermott, convicted gunman in the Don Mellett murder here last July, who is now serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary.

Although McDermott has made no requests for the interview it is believed the opportunity is ripe and that Pat will talk when confronted with certain excerpts of Louis Mazer's immunity-confession, given the Stark County grand jury a week ago.

Mazer was the third man indicted for first degree murder in connection with the Mellett killing.

In his story Mazer named McDermott as the only man on the firing line the night of the murder.

Harter and Slater plan to confront McDermott on this angle in their efforts to get a statement from McDermott, it was learned.

Harter's trip to Columbus makes necessary the postponement of the arraignment of Floyd Streitenberger, former Canton detective, fourth man indicted for alleged conspiracy in the slaying of the Caton publisher.

It is expected attorneys to represent Streitenberger will be named today.

WILL FACE TRIAL

OSBORN, O., Mar. 15.—Frank Adams was scheduled to be tried here Wednesday on a charge of cutting Frank Rust, 22, a baseball player recently signed by the Springfield team. Adams claimed he used his knife in self-defense. Rust, slashed three times, is in a Dayton hospital.

QUIT PASTORATE

SIDNEY, O., Mar. 15.—Rev. Edgar Schuh, formerly of Anna, has resigned his pastorate at Arcanum to accept a call to the Lutheran Church at New Orleans, La.

PRIZE FIGHTER HELD FOR MURDER OF WIFE AND FATHER-IN-LAW

HAMILTON, O., March 15.—A family quarrel was blamed by police today for the murder early this morning of Frank Mitts, 53, and his 21 year old daughter, Mrs. Catherine Mitts Foley.

Michael Foley, 24, estranged husband of the murdered woman, a local prize-fighter, was being questioned by detectives today in connection with the crime. Foley was arrested several hours after the killing.

The police version of the affair was that a man entered the Mitts' home about 1 o'clock this morning and opened fire with a shotgun, killing Mrs. Foley with one barrage of shots, and then wounding her father so badly that he died shortly thereafter in a hospital.

Police were notified of the shooting and immediately started searching for Foley, who, officers stated, had been resenting Mitts' action in discouraging his daughter's marriage to the prize fighter.

For several weeks Mrs. Foley had been staying at her father's home.

Police said that they had evidence which caused them to suspect that Foley, alleged to have been drinking Monday night, was in the vicinity of the home about the time the shots were fired.

The young wife's body was completely riddled by the murderer's shots, police said.

SUSPECT ADMITS COMPLICITY
IN SLAYING OF WATCHMAN

CLEVELAND, March 15.—One of four suspects held by police in connection with the killing of Jasper Russell, night watchman for the Midland Steel Products Company, here Sunday night, has confessed his complicity in the "job" and has named the "triggerman."

It was learned here today that Alex Mayner, the man who confessed, told detectives he and a companion were in the office of the steel company attempting to open the safe when the nightwatchman approached. Both ran into the yard with Russell in pursuit.

Reaching the fence of the mill yard, Mayner jumped over, according to his story. A moment later he heard a shot and the other man joined him, he stated.

The man named in Mayner's story as the actual gunman in the

Tuesday Final Day For Accepting Tax Returns

COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 15.—Hundreds of last-minute taxpayers in Ohio cities today were taking advantage of the last opportunity to make income tax returns with penalty, according to information received by federal officials here.

Internal revenue offices in many cities were to be kept open long after regular hours to accommodate the tardy return-makers. In Columbus, deputy collectors were to remain on duty until midnight, while Cleveland officials said they would stay on the job until the waiting line had been served. Tremendous traffic jams in the corridors of federal buildings throughout the state were reported.

Failure to make income tax returns today subjects taxpayers to penalty and liability prosecution. The only exception to this rule is in case of taxpayers who may be absent from their home cities on business, and who must get a letter in the mails today to the collectors of their respective districts, explaining their delay, in order to take advantage of a 30-day extension.

BOY KILLED, GIRL
HURT BY MOTORIST

CLEVELAND, O., March 15.—John Perkins, 13, is dead, and Miss Marie Shirley, 26, is in Mt. Sinai Hospital, critically injured, today as the result of a traffic accident here last night.

In a vain effort to avoid hitting Perkins, who was riding a bicycle, the driver of an automobile swerved his machine into the curb, knocking Miss Shirley to the sidewalk.

Roy Hughes, driver of the auto, is held by police on a charge of reckless driving.

Perkins is the son of Dr. Roger G. Perkins, well-known surgeon and professor of medicine at Western Reserve.

MARION MAN'S BILL PROHIBITS PUBLIC DANCES ON SUNDAYS

Marshall Bill For O. S.
And S. O. Home Up
To Senate

COLUMBUS, O., March 15.—The Hill bill, seeking to prohibit public dances on Sunday, is on today's house calendar, ready to be called up this afternoon on the question of passage. The bill was introduced by Rep. H. Edmund Hill, Republican, Marion.

The house this afternoon, also, is scheduled to vote on the question of passing the initiated bill which provides for a separate state board to license chiropractors.

Other measures, on today's house calendar, to be called up on the question of passage or adoption, include: Krueger resolution, authorizing appointment of a joint committee to investigate agricultural laws and to recommend farm relief legislation; Myers resolution providing for appointment of a committee to study conservation of Ohio's natural resources; Norton bill, authorizing appropriation for the 37th division battle monument commission to erect monuments in Europe commemorating World-war activities of members of that division; Anderson bill, penalizing persons who leave children locked in rooms, or building, without an adult attendant; the Ot bill, changing the open date for fur-bearing animals from November 15—February 1 to November 1—February 1; the Brown bill, authorizing use of undistributed proceeds from the state motor bus tax fund for state Emmons bill, authorizing county highway construction and the auditors to apportion the indebtedness between the city and township when part of a township is annexed to a city and the part annexed has an indebtedness.

Hills scheduled to be called up in the senate this afternoon on the question of passage include: Collier bill providing for licensing motor vehicle operators; the Marshall bill, providing for admission of children at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, Xenia; the Morgan bill, providing that inheritance taxes shall be collected on intangible property only in the state of the decedent's domicile when the state of the domicile has a similar law of reciprocity; the Herbert bill providing that unclaimed autos, motorcycles and bicycles held by police may be sold in ninety days; the Reche bill providing that owners of property to be assessed for street lighting or for construction of sewers in municipalities shall be notified by mail as well as by publication.

UNABLE TO CONFIRM

WAGE CONTROVERSY

Miners Willing Says District
Chief At Convention

BELLAIRE, O., Mar. 15.—Official confirmation of reports widely circulated that officials of the United Mine Workers Union had made overtures looking toward a resumption of wage negotiations with Ohio coal operators, in an effort to avoid a cessation of operations in the soft-coal fields of the state at the expiration of the Jacksonville wage agreement Mar. 31, was lacking here today.

"The miners stand where they have always stood—ready to resume negotiations at any time the operators indicate a desire to do so," said Adolph Pacifico, vice president of sub-district No. Five, which is holding its convention here today. "But we stand firmly on the proposition outlined by the miners' union representatives at the Miami conference—no reduction of the existing wage scale."

The convention to date has taken no official action relative to the wage scale, but union officials unanimously expressed a determination to stand by the refusal of the miners' wage negotiators to accept any reduction of pay."

Whether or not any definite peace proposal would come out of a conference of eastern Ohio coal operators scheduled for today in Cleveland, the miners here indicated, depended entirely upon the question of the operators seeking a joint conference.

CORSETS GONE? DON'T KID YOURSELF!

A YEAR

MRS. BLANCHE R. GREEN

By MARY BLADE

Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright 1927

NEW YORK, March 15.—It isn't extraordinary for a woman to earn $100,000 a year, even in business, so when the news got around that Mrs. Blanche R. Green was now in that exclusive class it wasn't the mere circumstance itself that won her so much public attention. What made the news positively sensational, as far as Gotham was concerned, was the revelation that she is earning it selling CORSETS!

As a matter of fact, although flappers may scorn them, corsets are still being worn by four out of five women, Mrs. Green estimates.

A popular notion that the modern girl had discarded the supporting stays her grandmother wore is disapproved by Mrs. Green's successful career.

From an office on Columbus circle overlooking the sparkling Hudson river, Mrs. Green, who this week marked her fifteenth year in business, directs a force of saleswomen who cover the nation.

"Everybody buys corsets today," Mrs. Green says. "But women are much more careful than formerly in feeling that their corsets are of the proper fit. "The corset of today has some modern improvements that grandmother never thought of. The 1927 corset is tailor made."

Mrs. Green, who is a "home woman" in staid Yonkers, after business hours, is vice president and general manager of her concern.

MUSIC WOMAN'S CLUB

The Xenia Woman's Music Club met at the home of the Misses Steele Monday afternoon, with Mrs. William Anderson as the leader for the day, who read a most interesting paper on Rachmaninoff. She told of his early studies, astonishing progress in his pianistic accomplishments and the prestige which he soon attained as a composer. Although devoted to his native land, the revolution made it necessary for him to leave Russia. Now, he has a charming home on Riverside Drive, New York where he lives when he is not on tour. The program of the afternoon was composed of Russian selections and was presented by the second division. It was as follows: Humoresque.....Tschalkowsky Large, Scherza, Opus No. 3.....Beethoven Mrs. Ruthrauff Sylvell.....Sindling Lilacs.....Rachmaninoff Morning.....Rachmaninoff Mrs. Davidson The Veil of Night.....Tschalkowsky Thoult like unto a Flower.....Rubenstein over the Steppe.....Gretchenhoff Mrs. Wolf Melodie.....Rachmaninoff Mrs. Woodward The Azra.....Rubenstein The Clock.....Sachnowsky Miss Harriet McCarty He Who Hath Yearned.....Tschalkowsky Alone.....Tschalkowsky Song of the Volga Boatmen.....Arr. by Engel Mrs. Swinnerton

OBSERVE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wiley, Beavertown, former residents of Clifton, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary last Saturday. The former Greene County residents have resided in Montgomery County the past twenty years. Their golden wedding date was celebrated at the home of their daughter, Mrs. J. Nelson Prugh and Mr. Prugh at Ashlawn farm, Wilmington Pike, near Dayton. Attending the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Prugh, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cox, Miss Mary Currie, Miss Etta Bull, Yellow Springs, Miss Mary Turner, Xenia; Mrs. Glendinning, Lebanon, Ind., the Rev. and Mrs. S. R. Jamieson, Miss Stella Wiley and Mr. John Wiley Prugh. After leaving Greene County, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley lived ten years on their farm on the Marshall Road, a mile from Beavertown. They lived in Beavertown after their retirement. Their daughter, Miss Stella Wiley is a teacher in Fairmont High School and resides at home. They are members of the Sugar Creek U. P. Church.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT MCKINLEY P.T. A.

A flag drill by twelve girls of the fourth grade and a playlet entertained thirty-five members of McKinley P.T. A., at McKinley Auditorium, Monday afternoon. The drill showed excellent training and the playlet, in which Mrs. Frey and her son, Oliver, took part, was of Mrs. Frey's own composition and was well presented. Mrs. J. J. Stout gave a report of the county P.T. A. meeting at Central High School in February. The treasurer's report was of interest to the members, and disclosed a large number of shoes were purchased the past month by the society for needy children in the school.

RALPH THOMAS TO APPEAR IN RECITAL

Mr. Ralph Thomas, Dayton, well known in this city, will appear in a costume concert at the N. C. R. Schoolhouse, Dayton, Wednesday evening, April 6, at 8:15 o'clock. The public is invited to attend the concert. Mr. Thomas, well known vocalist and teacher, has a studio in the Commodore Apartments, that city. He studied in Cincinnati, New York, Paris and Milan.

CHURCH DINNER.

Members of the First U. P. Church will enjoy a covered dish dinner in the church dining room Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. Prayers will follow the dinner. The young people will furnish meat and coffee and others are asked to bring a covered dish and sandwiches.

MISSION SOCIETY MEETS ON MONDAY

The members of the Sara M. Chew Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. Church held their March meeting at the home of Mrs. Brant Bell, Hill St., Monday evening. The program of the evening was in charge of Mrs. J. J. Stout. The devotionals were conducted by Mrs. James Canaday. Mrs. Sherwin Spahr presented the chapter from the mission study book and a leaflet on the subject was read by Mrs. Stout. Following the program a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. The April meeting will be held at the home of Miss Lucille Beatty on N. Detroit St.

SUPT. PENDRY TO ADDRESS P.T. A. MEET

The Parent-Teachers' Club of Spring Valley will meet Thursday evening, March 17, at the Spring Valley Town Hall, at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. H. C. Pendry, Xenia City School superintendent, will be the speaker. The public is invited.

Dr. and Mrs. Reed Madden, who have been touring southern resorts for several weeks are expected to arrive home this week. Miss Lucy Linkhart, Lima, O., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Sarah Harner, N. Detroit St.

Funeral services for Mr. Rass Little, Grape Grove, will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the residence with interment in Grape Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. Charles Pope, Allison Ave. underwent a tonsillectomy at the offices of a local physician, Tuesday morning and is recovering nicely.

Xenia relatives have received word of the birth of a nine-pound son to Mr. and Mrs. William N. Bath, of Tuscum Heights, Cincinnati, last Wednesday. The little one has been named Barbara Joyce. Mrs. Bath, before her marriage, was Miss Marie Barbara, of Price Hill, Cincinnati.

Mrs. Scott Slaughter and two sons, London, O., are visiting Mrs. Slaughter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Dodds, W. Second St.

Mrs. J. Harry Nagley, E. Market St., and Mrs. S. C. Wright, S. Detroit St., attended the meeting of the Home Culture Club at the home of Mrs. Ed Hamilton, Cedarville, Tuesday afternoon.

Xenia Delphian Chapter will meet Tuesday with Miss Louise Reynolds, E. Church St., instead of Mrs. A. S. Frazer, as formerly planned. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Sutton, Mr. John T. Sutton and Mrs. Daisy Bader, Buckeye Lake, left Tuesday for that resort. Mrs. Bader has been spending several weeks here and Mr. and Mrs. Sutton and son will spend a week at her home.

The condition of James Arthur Northern, 4, suffering from a bullet wound in his right lung and chest, after being accidentally shot by Leonard Crane, continued about the same at McClellan Hospital, Tuesday morning. The child's condition is serious with chances for his recovery.

Ivanhoe Lodge, No. 56, Knights of Pythas will be served supper after the regular lodge session, Wednesday night. The menu will be served by Jacob Kany about 8 o'clock. Impromptu talks and important business discussion will take place.

The condition of Attorney Marcus Shoup, who is undergoing treatment at Dr. Cryle's Clinic Hospital, Cleveland, preparatory to an operation, is improving satisfactorily. The operation is expected to be performed the latter part of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Baxter and son, this city, spent Sunday in Urbana, O., with friends.

FOR THE EMPLOYED GIRL

The employed girl often is in a quandary about what to do about clothes, for she wants both utility, durability and smartness. These two new dresses are intended for the "working woman." Left, taffeta, with black blouse and plaid skirt, right, a vest ensemble, with a skirt that is box-plaited in front, and with trappings of braid and white silk.

ACCESSORIES HAVE MUCH TO DO WITH SUCCESS OF YOUR SPRING COSTUME

A trip through the stores these days will convince you that never have the accessories for the feminine wardrobe been so beautiful, so exotic, so exquisite. All those little "doo-dads" so dear to the heart of every woman and so important to her costume if she would be faultlessly correct and well dressed, you'll find in endless array.

"It's the little things that count" is the rule of the well dressed woman this spring and an entire frock may be "made" by such a small thing as a belt. And speaking of belts, be it known that this little accessory—so important to her costume if she would be faultlessly correct and well dressed, you'll find in endless array.

Others are of shirred leather in large boat shapes and flat square bags are much in evidence. One and two-tone combinations of pigskin, alligator and brilliant colored morocco leathers are used. Two leather combinations are favored, too, such as kid with suede.

Fashionable colors are green, blue and tan. Red is used more as a trimming on black or navy, although we've seen some clever bags—all in red. Monograms on bags are still very good. On shopping bags they are very large in gold, silver or enamel and again we see combinations of crystal and black enamel.

For more formal wear, bags are of brocade in pouch shape, hung from gorgeous jeweled frames. Jeweled envelope purses are also smart for evening.

SPRING WOVEN INTO SMART FOOTWEAR ON EXHIBIT IN STORES

The lit of the robin—the glint of Spring sunshine—is reflected in the fascinating new footwear for the spring of 1927.

The modes for new costumes are brilliant with color and shoes carry out their duty religiously as fitting complements to the mode of color. Never have we seen such a lovely array of flattering colors in footwear as the shops are showing this Spring.

From Nature's own palette come dainty youthful shades with such charming and alluring names as pastelle, parchment, stone, rose blush, shell gray, stroller tan and hampstead brown. These and many more you'll find—all subtle, beautiful, exquisite.

It really wasn't so very long ago, as you probably remember when shoes were built to be practical—"to stand the gaff." Today we find them practical, of course, but always they must be and are, beautiful—and youthful.

And thanks to the designers who are constantly and forever seeking new effects, new materials, new designs—beautiful shoes are now within the reach of every woman in America. Truly we have never seen such lovely footwear—priced so interestingly, too, when they are so beautiful—as the stores are now showing.

It is quite apparent that the most popular materials are patent leather and kid. Reptile skin is shown plentifully in sports shoes and, of course, satin is always good for dressier occasions. The patent and kids are trimmed with novelty leathers and reptilian effects and are stunning and flattering to any foot.

I'm Most Grateful Every Month

Here's glorious news for long-suffering womankind! To every woman who periodically has suffered from Catarrh, Menstruation need no longer be painful. And it is science that is speaking!

Specialists have developed a tiny tablet called Midol. It's a simple thing, utterly harmless to a girl of fourteen, but it brings relief in five to seven minutes. And is effective twelve hours or longer!

Midol is NOT a narcotic. It has no effect whatever on heart or nervous system. It acts directly on those organs affected by menstruation. They function normally, as they should, but the pain is banished. Complete relief—yes, perfect comfort—follows Midol.

Your druggist has Midol for 50 cents, in a slim aluminum box to tuck in your purse.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

SHORT SKIRT HORRIBLE
SAYS LONDON MERCHANT
LONDON, Mar. 15.—"I think the short skirt and the bare-leg vogue is horrible and barbarous, and I cannot believe it is going to last. If I had a daughter of fifteen or sixteen, and I met her with skirts stopping at the knee—well, there would be a lively scene."
Thus John Lewis, London's oldest soft-goods merchant and owner of a large London store, "I think the world is better than it used to be," declared Lewis on his ninety-first birthday. "But here is one thing I cannot stand, and that is modern women's fashions."

LONDON FASHION NOTES

By International News Service
LONDON—British color schemes seem to be dominating European fashions at the moment.

Scottish plaids are one favorite mode. They are the "discovery" of a designer who visited the Highlands recently.

Designs based on club or college "colors" are another great attraction. These "schemes" have the great advantage of being distinctive and of contrasting well with pale materials and also with the subtle shades of blues and greys now in vogue.

One fashionable design in a long, slim, blue silk coat with a large hooded collar. The collar is edged with a broad band of brown fur, while the rest of it, which falls in folds round the neck, is striped in blue and red like a college handkerchief.

The idea is also carried out in dresses. Neat little blue dresses are finished round the neck with handkerchiefs similarly decorated, knotted on the shoulder; or they may have a V-neck, round which is set a striped handkerchief, knotted at the point.

COUNTY AUDITOR BEGINS NEW TERM

County Auditor R. O. Wead entered upon a new term of four years Monday to the office for which he was re-elected last November.

He announced at the start of his new term, that no changes had been made nor any contemplated in the personnel of his office force and that heads of all departments had been re-appointed.

Auditor Wead was sworn into office Monday, Deputy Auditor Paul H. Creswell administering the oath.

She didn't know what was wrong!

ON DESPISING UGLINESS

In a recent address a New York club woman voiced the belief that "beauty is an antidote for criminal impulses."

She did not explain what she meant by "criminal impulses" but it is likely she confined the idea to safe-blowing, second story work and banditry.

It may be that a boy, reared in unlovely by-ways, with never a suggestion of beauty or grace to lend wing to his imagination, just naturally turns to vicious endeavor. But when you not the number of youngsters in our big cities who fight their way through a squalid youth to an honest, useful self-respecting maturity, the Club Queen's observation begins to wilt and wobble like an invalid's appetite in a railroad lunch room.

There's nothing to it "Criminal impulses" are wholly impartial in the matter of habitation. They breed with the purities of wealth as in the precincts of poverty.

Beauty is no antidote for "criminal impulses" in the case of the ripe-chinned gentleman with the "I-don't-mean-may-be" look, who motors down every day from his million-dollar mansion to the financial district to cash in on the gullibility of his fellow man.

It's no antidote in the case of the stained-glass Christian who warbles anthems of praise to his Maker on the Sabbath and then consumes the ensuing six days in the consumption of short weight prune deals.

Taken by and large, there's more decency and virtue bred quarters that beauty shuns than in certain sacred segments where ministering to her whims has degenerated into a fetish.

If virtue depended for existence on Beauty, there would be no scale by which the distant might be spanned between, let us say, Saint Theresa and Peggy Joyce.

Let us cultivate a love for beauty, by all means; but first it might be just as well to learn to despise ugliness.

MAKES MORE THAN MONEY

"Business does more than make money. It makes morals."

Shailer Mathews, Dean of the University of Chicago Divinity School has no use for those who bewail the bad effect of business on our morals, judging from an editorial by him in the March issue of "System" He writes:

"Not having goods to sell they denounce methods of salesmanship; not having to organize production, they denounce corporations. Having no responsibility for fixing prices or selling down costs, they generalize upon wares and markets."

Like the youth who advises the quarterback how to run his team, they shout advice to business. But they are not playing the commercial game. As Dr. Mathews says, "They are only in the commercial grandstand."

Business," he continued, "does more than wait for others to make its moralities. It evolves its own, for it not a machine, but a moral operations. Business men learn that in the long run there are rules of the game which cannot be safely ignored."

KIND RULES FOR DEADLY SPORT

Armor to protect the horses used in bull fights has recently been tried out in Spain. It was urged by "lovers of animals," according to a news dispatch, although apparently to the bulls, foreordained to be the losers in the fights, are not sufficiently loved to cause any agitation for armor for their protection.

The armor was not a great success from the standpoint of popular approval. The fight fans hissed and peered and demanded it be removed because it spoiled the sport by prolonging the fight and discouraging the bull.

It isn't an important matter which needs discussion in these parts, because there isn't any local bull-fighting. But it is interesting as revealing the confused psychology that tries to inject humanity and kindness into sports like bull-fighting. Many people who believe that this sport ought to be abolished because of its waste and cruelty try to sweeten war with rules for humanity and kindness. It is difficult.

How to Achieve Beauty

SPRING AS A BEAUTY TONIC
Spring is the ideal season of the year for walking, and walking is the one easy and yet wonderful exercise within the reach of everybody.

No matter what your station in life—whether you can take advantage of the greatest luxuries or whether only the simple pleasures are within your reach—walking is a sport that you can all enjoy—and there is no exercise that is more beneficial.

I think, too, in spring we appreciate the joy of walking more than ever, especially after the long winter months of inclement weather, when walking has not been so enjoyable and one has been more or less housed up perhaps in a small apartment. One's muscles are apt to become more or less contracted by the cold weather and the drying effect of the steam heat stifles the bones, so when spring is in the air, get out and stride and loosen up.

Stretch often. Stretching is wonderful for limbering up the muscles. Stretch like the cat that has been hibernating for the winter and who emerges into the spring air and sunshine for new life.

Make up your mind now, although it is only the middle of March, that you are going to get the full health-giving benefits of spring air and sunshine. Begin right now and lay your plans for your sports activities during the spring season.

Tomorrow I will devote my article to reviewing the benefits of the various outdoor sports which can be ideally indulged in at this season of the year. But today I want to particularly stress the importance of frequent walks.

Stay out in the air and walk as much as possible and breathe deeply, clear down to your diaphragm, and you cannot help but take a new lease on life, just as the animals, the fruit, the flowers and all the natural things of life do.

During the winter months you may have practiced your setting-up exercises faithfully, and in this way have kept your figure trim and your body lithe. But no matter how good this type of indoor exercise is, it doesn't compare with the natural outdoor exercises that you can now enjoy in the open, because after all these are artificial ways of keeping the muscles of the body limber and nothing that is artificial, no matter how good it may be, can equal that which is natural.

So make up your mind right now to set apart some period of the day for your spring walk. It will bring color to your cheeks and vim to your spirit.

CONGESTION

There are few people of ordinary intelligence who have not some idea of the meaning of the term congestion.

Those who live in cities at the present time often hear and use this word. One of its most common applications is to the condition of many of the streets at certain hours in there are so the day when many vehicles and so many people that it is difficult to progress or go forward.

In other words, the street is crowded, there are so many people that one suffers inconvenience, and sometimes serious consequences from the accumulation.

Or take a stream of water after several days of rain or after the melting snows of early spring have filled its channel and increased the rapidity of its current. This is congestion of the stream and it may overflow its natural limits and do great damage as it works its way along.

Many other similar illustrations could be cited, all of which are examples of congestion and the human body furnishes, perhaps, the best example of what is possible in connection with the presence of this condition.

The blood is conveyed to all parts of the body along certain channels or tubes which are more or less flexible and vary greatly in size. These constitute what is known as the vascular system, arteries, capillaries and veins.

The current starts from the heart, passes through the arterial portion of the system, irrigates the tissues of the body through the fine, hair-like, invisible capillaries, and then is gathered up for its return journey to the heart, through the veins.

It goes to the lungs to be purified and then starts again in its journey over the body, keeping up this cycle day in and day out, year in and year out, as long as life continues.

But suppose something happens to a person, perhaps he gets very angry, his face gets red or even purple, and blood vessels stand out conspicuously where they were not seen before.

That means that the impulse of anger has stimulated the heart which acts like a force pump and the blood current is hurled with increased velocity over the body, particularly to the skin, and the skin becomes red and hot; in other words, congested, until the impression of anger passes away and the person cools off and becomes quiet again.

We sometimes say that such a person looks as if he might burst a blood vessel, and such an accident not infrequently happens, because of congestion.

Twenty Years Ago - 07 - 27

For a few hours last night it was feared there would be a repetition of the May flood of 1886.

The Grand Hotel building, owned by T. A. McCall, was sold to H. E. Schmidt.

The Schmidt Billiard ball and cigar store were sold to Frank Hunt, of the firm of Hunt and Linkhart.

Mr. J. F. Gegner sold his meat store located on W. Second St., to Fred Shoe-maker.

Extensive improvements are planned for the Y. M. C. A. building.

cause the blood vessels were not strong enough to bear the increased pressure that was put upon them, the congestion was too much for them to bear.

Or suppose one has been exposed to cold or fatigue, or has drunk a great quantity of whisky, or dissipated in some other way. In this case the heart becomes feeble, is unable to do its pumping with its usual force, then the current of blood from the lungs to the heart slows down, the blood accumulates in the lungs, and the breathing becomes difficult and rapid. Perhaps the congestion in this case may be relieved by a hemorrhage from the lungs or with all the chances and dangers of pneumonia may quickly follow which accompany that disease.

Any portion of the body, any organ of the body, may suffer from congestion. Probably the lungs are the most frequent victims, because a considerable portion of all the blood of the body is constantly in them to be relieved of its carbonic acid and to absorb from the air the life-sustaining oxygen.

The liver suffers next in frequency to the lungs from congestion, for it is the largest organ in the body and a stream of blood is constantly pouring into it through the great portal vein which has been gathered from the blood vessels of the intestines.

The brain often suffers from congestion and if it is extensive and the blood vessels have poor resistance power, one or more of them may break and we have the condition of apoplexy or stroke, which is always a very serious matter.

Besides these bad and serious congestions there are others which are not serious but are natural and physiological. Always when the digestive apparatus is at work there is congestion of its various parts.

This is because the glandular elements of the apparatus which furnish the secretions or materials by which the digestion of food substance is accomplished must be properly nourished by the blood in order to be able to furnish such material.

After digestion is concluded the congestion subsides, the excess of blood flowing off to other parts of the body where it may be required. Congestion, therefore, plays a very important part in the daily life and work of every individual.

SIGNIFICANT SAYINGS OF THE DAY

"Of the 10,000,000 planes in the United States about 8,000,000 are out of tune and merely 'thump boxes.'"—Charles Deutschmann, of Chicago, president of the National Association of Piano Tuners.

"Too much help from mother has robbed many a youth of the traits of initiative and independence that he must have to succeed. When Frederick, Jr., chose West Point, I was glad. But I did not attempt to influence him."—Mrs. Frederick Funston, widow of the late General Funston.

"I have no quarrel with the king. He has my sympathy. I am sure he would wish to be a man rather than a king. I am sure the Prince of Wales would rather pick out his own wife than have someone else choose one for him. He is only allowed to choose his dance partners."—A. J. Cook, British "Red" leader.

MAKING MODERN MENUS

A fruit salad may be merely a conglomeration of fruits to some housekeepers, but there are others who realize that in its preparation it may take on the semblance of something quite different. The frozen fruit salad has been most popular for the last year or so and there is another sort which is being used at luncheon parties at the present time.

SPECIAL FRUIT SALAD
Beat the yolks of six eggs until thick and lemon colored. Add one cup of confectioner's sugar and stir until sugar is dissolved. Add the juice of two lemons and one-half teaspoon of salt. Line a salad bowl with lettuce leaves, and place on them the sections of two oranges and one grapefruit, two or three kumquats silvery very thin and three bananas cut across and then lengthwise into twelve pieces. Pour over one-half the dressing and repeat the layers of fruit. Pour the remainder of the dressing and place on ice. Serve very cold.

Another pleasing dessert is this one:

APPLE SAUCE CAKES
Beat together one-half cup of cream with one-fourth cup of melted butter until the two are mixed, then add two beaten eggs and one teaspoonful of ground nutmeg. Line six saucers with a light biscuit dough and fill with Delicious or any other soft-fleshed apples which have been pared, cored and cut up into small pieces. About twelve apples will be needed. Pour a little of the batter over each saucer and build up edges with strips of biscuit dough. Sprinkle generously with chopped nuts and bake for thirty minutes. Serve with whipped cream.

KELLYGRAMS BY FRED C. KELLY

DOG LOVERS AND DOG EXHIBITORS

This is the season for dog shows, and every time I attend one I'm impressed by the great difference between people who really love or understand dogs and those who merely own or exhibit them.

To me the whole point to having a dog is companionship—chumminess. If your dog isn't a pal, why have him at all? What would be the fun of keeping a dog who doesn't even know that you belong to each other? Your dog, like your sweetheart, must feel sincere enthusiasm over your footsteps. Otherwise he isn't really yours!

Yet a shockingly large number of dogs on the benches at dog shows do not even know their masters by sight. They are led into the ring by employees or by professional "handlers." To their owners they are merely devices for gaining one more form of prestige. Frequently a poor little dog who asks nothing better from life than just to romp and play and be somebody's best friend, is a prisoner on exhibition at one show after another for weeks at a stretch, because his owner, who seldom sees him, hopes to boast that his dog has won a championship. It is one thing to love a foolish little pup that cocks one ear when you speak to him, but quite another thing to love a mere collection of blue ribbons.

I believe far more posing is done by various owners of show dogs than by the dogs they exhibit. It often happens that when a man reaches a certain degree of affluence, he thinks it is socially smart to become a dog fancier. But his dog interest is full of fake, pretense and nonsense. He has dogs, not to chum with, but to boast about.

I'm always suspicious of a fancier whose dog talk is mainly about pedigrees and prizes. Anybody can admire a famous blue ribbon winner, but it takes a sure-eyed dog lover to become devoted to a poor little mongrel rescued from the pound.

Just take note, the next time anybody starts talking dog to you, whether he discusses his dog or the dog's ancestry.

If your well dog isn't first of all your chum, you are cheating him. Worse, you are cheating yourself.

Back of one of the counters in a Fifth Avenue department store is a little desk where two girls are employed, one to wrap packages and the other to fool around with cash slips and negotiate change. One of them is a bright-eyed, vivacious little thing, dainty and trim as a wren. Her name is Nanette. I know that because I watched her as she spelled it out with pins on the old purple Canton flannel on the desk.

The other is a lack-lustre kid with the loose, sprawling, shiftless look of the tribe, born tired. You can visualize her shifting from shop to shop in quest of better pay and less work, drifting slowly but surely toward the lower levels and out into drab years.

But life will be kinder to Nanette. Some day that name of hers woven now on the purple cushion in pin heads, will flash before the world bright as the window panes of a city on a hill reflecting the rays of the rising sun.

MARIE DRAZDORF, A PHOTO TAKEN BY THE HOME TOWN PHOTOGRAPHER.

Hons. Marie, with a 5-year-old son and a man too poor to marry her.

A German newspaper got a mischievous cable dispatch from America. One of its correspondents in New York had read in an American newspaper, that one Scheffelbauer, of Milwaukee, had died, leaving his niece, Marie Drazdorf, resident of the old country, $5,000,000. The correspondent translated the news, turned $5,000,000 into 20,000,000 marks, and brushed the tidings across the ocean.

Meerane read and blinked. Marie Drazdorf—of course it was Meerane's Marie, none other. It turned out en masse to congratulate Marie. She remembered dimly, something about a lost uncle in America, but was doubtful about it all. She kept her job.

Letters poured in upon her. Most of them begged money; others wanted to sell something. Men wanted to marry her. Marie's head wasn't turned. Besides, where was the money?

Alas, for Marie and her wild, brief residence in air castles. Meerane now knows, that in Milwaukee there is no record of a Mr. Scheffelbauer, living or dead. A millionaire, Löffelschmalz, by name, did die there recently, leaving provision for a working girl with a name something like Marie Drazdorf's.

Marie was the victim of the carelessness of a hasty correspondent who didn't know his English very well.

"I knew it was too good to be true," Marie says simply.

SALLY'S SALLIES

Is Eve the best known woman because she wore the least clothes?

Little Old New York

NEW YORK, Mar. 15.—On the announcement board at the edge of the narrow front lawn of a little Grammarly Park church the sexton had chalked the text of Sunday's sermon:

"WHY DID THE MASTER DIE?"

Beneath which some irreverent critic scribbled:

"THAT BRUCE BARTON MIGHT LIVE!"

Back of one of the counters in a Fifth Avenue department store is a little desk where two girls are employed, one to wrap packages and the other to fool around with cash slips and negotiate change. One of them is a bright-eyed, vivacious little thing, dainty and trim as a wren. Her name is Nanette. Broadway has extended a new blue, orange and uranium green glad-hand (palm up) forty feet high and ninety feet long, to the stranger within its gates. The three new colors added to the polychrome of P. and M. monium Promenade comprise a sign which reads: "Broadway Welcomes You to New York."

That's as good a way to spend money as any. No one in New York takes it seriously and the Out-of-Town-Man-About Town who reads it reaches into his pocket and makes sure the safety pin is still holding hands with his bankroll, continues on his way rejoicing.

Slip into Broadway without any money some day and see what the Glad-hand amounts to. Mazda Lane's interest in the stranger centers on his bank account. The word "Welcome" on the doormat is sincere—sincere as a night club hostess' smile or a bootlegger's greeting.

A physician has varied the monotony of procedure by telling the world what to do to get sick. "Eat plenty of starches, get a corporation and look prosperous," he says. "Treat your body like you car and you will soon learn what its trade-in value is. Wear a tight hat, collect dranduff and become bald. Get cheap eyeglasses and you won't have to read. You won't be able to. Don't drink water, avoid vegetables and never sleep eight hours."

The Doc came to a full stop for a period there but he might have gone on and said: "And when you finally do fall ill, call in a modern physician and have him treat you for something that isn't the matter with you."

SONGS of a HOUSEWIFE
by Marjorie K. Rawlings

LOVE'S NEEDS

Love needs but little for its nest:
A shelter from the cold;
A heart where tired feet come to rest,
And friendly tales are told.

A cottage on a lonely hill,
Where one poor candle gleams
Upon a shabby window-sill,
May hold a world of dreams.

Love needs but little dressing-up:
A tiny garden-bower;
A linen cloth, a flower-filled cup,
To grace the supper hour.

Love's needs are few; but in its pride
Must find no welcome thine.
Hearts' doors must stand flung open wide,
That it may enter in.

SHOE COLORS WHICH HARMONIZE IN SHADE WITH DRESS, SMART

While light tans predominate among shoe styles for spring, one occasionally sees a dark model that is the last word in smartness. The lighter shades are advanced to harmonize with the delicate shades for spring of the other details of the costume, but spring fashion also puts forth stunning dark models that will go handsomely with the darker coat and dress shades or the composite costume.

Shoe styles get daintier each year, it seems. The new models for the spring of 1927 are of fragile kid and patent leather, with dainty low cut designs that appeal to the heart of the truly feminine. Even the sport model oxfords are of the light shades, with sometimes a combination of two or more shades. Lizard, snake, and alligator skins continue to be popular, with these materials used in many intricate designs.

The new shoes for spring are of various types. They include fancy ties, pumps, one or more strapped slippers, cut out and perforated models and oxfords. The plain light or dark colors are combined in many enticing ways with other materials, and the style woman or girl can easily choose a slipper that fits each of her costumes.

SMART COATS FOR COMING SPRING

Smart coats are being shown by Xenia stores that may be utilized in many ways.

The majority of the models are of the sport or "top-coat" order, and are attractive with almost any kind of costume. Gay plaid combinations lead, but there are also attractive coats of more subtle colors.

Rich fur collars and cuffs set off both the bright colored combinations and the plainer materials. Coats of this type are becoming worn over a tailored suit or dress, or a more fancy frock. Full-length linings enable the coats to be worn in the early spring days with heavier costumes beneath, or later in the season with more sheer frocks.

PAROLE PRISONER FROM COUNTY JAIL

Parole of Harris Mitchell, colored, prisoner in the County Jail, has been authorized by County Commissioners.

Mitchell was convicted of possessing liquor by Mayor John W. Prugh, October 19, 1926 and sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and costs.

Defaulting in payment he was committed to jail to work out the sentence.

The parole was granted upon his promise to pay the balance due on the fine and costs in monthly installments of $10, and on the condition of future good behavior.

NEWEST IN VAMP ATTIRE

What the spring and summer vamp will wear is indicated by Carmel Myers of screen fame. It's a gown of black chiffon and black lace trimmed with lavender and green flowers.

LITTLE SISTER'S SPRING WARDROBE WELL TAKEN CARE OF BY FASHIONS

Influenced no doubt by the simple tailored mode of her older sister, we find the fashions for Miss Seven to Fourteen Years characterized by tailored styling and absence of ornamentation.

Trimnings are almost entirely of fabric and the use of two and three-tone treatments are noticed on all the smart little dresses. Wool crepe and crepe de chine are favored materials.

In wool crepe we see a decided preference in the use of blues, greens and beiges. Flannel noted, too, trimmed with linen collar and cuffs and tailored flat pearl buttons.

In the clever little silk models we see the influence of the tailored mode adhered to again very conspicuously. Also on most of the little dresses the use of two and three-tone color combinations is the most prominent trimming.

Fabric flowers, fabric cord belts and pleatings in different arrangements.

FLU-COLDS VICKS VAPORUB

are highly favored. Quaint florals, vivid dotted and futuristic designs in cotton fabrics are also used in gay little dresses.

Ruffles are seen often on dainty colored organdie which seems to be regaining favor with the smart youngest set. Organdie is seen on collar and cuffs, pockets as well as belts that tie in saucy bows at the back.

TEXAS HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS MAKE THEIR OWN HATS LEARNED

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Mar. 15.—Individuality and frugality are the reasons given by girl students of Brackenridge high school here for the decision to make their own chapeaux for the coming season.

Miss Elsie Jonas, who has charge of the sewing class, said that the girls are going to devote their spare time to designing and making their own hats this year.

The great problem confronting the girls of today, according to Miss Elsie Jonas, sewing teacher, is the difficulty experienced in buying ready made hats that are adapted to one's personality and the contour of the head and face. "It is almost impossible to buy a standard pattern in a hat to fit perfectly the contour and complexion of the individual, and that is where the girls who make their own hats have it over other girls," Miss Jonas said.

CHILD DIES HAPPY AFTER SEEING COP

TOLEDO, O., Mar. 115.—Ronald Tucker died here after realizing his life's ambition at five years. Following his injury last June when he stamped out a fire in his home, Ronald confided to a nurse that "life in the hospital wouldn't be so bad if he could meet a policeman."

Next day a big blue uniformed patrolman with shining brass buttons, baton, badge, whistle and thick soled shoes came to Ronald's bed. Every day after that a patrolman came to visit with Ronald.

Last week Ronald's twin brother Donald cried and told his playmates, "Ronald's never going to play with me any more. He's dead."

COMPLAINTS FILED AGAINST APPRAISAL TO BE HEARD IN MAY

Approximately 100 formal complaints against the recent property re-valuations occasioned by the county-wide re-appraisal of real estate, filed with County Auditor R. O. Wead, will be given a hearing by the board of revision probably in May, it is announced. The percentage of complaints against the appraisal is considered extremely low in view of the fact nearly 25,000 tracts of land in the county were appraised. The board of revision has already organized. It is estimated more than a month will be necessary to hear and judge all the complaints, but the board expects to hold continuous sessions until all protests are passed upon.

TAXES AMOUNTED TO $650,000 IS SAID

Collection of the first half of 1926 taxes, recently completed, netted the county approximately $650,000, it was revealed Tuesday by County Auditor R. O. Wead. This, he considers, to be a normal collection for the period. Distribution of this tax money will begin about March 25, it is believed.

WHITE WAISTCOAT WITH DINNER SUIT CONDEMNED BY MERCHANT TAILORS

Tidings from the annual convention of the National Association of Merchant Tailors, lately held at Memphis, include, among other things, an analysis of haberdashery and accessories in the scheme of dress.

Heretofore, it is recalled, these craftsmen have confined themselves to discussions about clothing only and their departure in taking up the matter of furnishings is welcomed as an opinion from a body of men who really ought to know what they are talking about.

In summarizing a few of the incorrect practices, the tailors condemned the habit of wearing the silk or opera hat with anything but the tailcoat. They have also stricken the white waistcoat off the list for wear with the dinner suit and frown upon the custom now prevailing so largely, of wearing light colored overcoats and hats with evening clothes.

Further, they have come to the conclusion that the soft collar should be worn only during hot weather, and solely for country and sports wear.

PARIS STYLE HINTS

By ALICE LANGELEIR

International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, March 15.—Black and white in combinations that are myriad are being stressed by Paris for after-dark clothes this spring.

Usually these two opposing colors are separated to further their striking contrast, but strange to say, they very often appear more stunning when put together. And more than this, there is probably no other color combination which is so universally becoming to nearly every woman.

Certainly the most beautiful dress in Anna's collection this season is in black and white georgette with a floating drapery at the side and a remarkable headed motif at the hip spreading out over the black background in star effect.

Lucile is also showing a charming "magnolia" evening gown with the bodice semi-fitted by means of shirring that forms a line in the center front and back. In the back a godet of satin covers the shirring and in front it is accentuated by exquisite embroideries of orchid and silver which spread to form a girdle at the waistline in front. The skirt is made of pointed panels of jet and pearl fringes that are arranged in tiers of varying Henri Verne is using the black and white combination for a striking traveling coat in cloth, silk-stitched in applique motifs. Neim is also using black marocain lined with white for some of his smartest spring coats.

Beer is making an unusual coat-dress of black and white checked wool cut perfectly plain at the back and with the front exactly like a dinner jacket bound round the narrow black silk braid and worn with a white satin waistcoat. A very striking afternoon gown of black point d'esprit is made over black satin with a white vest, or plastron, as the French call it, in front and a motif of silver embroidery in the center.

SMITH LEADING IN CONTEST FOR "MOST POPULAR ATHLETE"

Will Fred "Bull Dog" Smith, Central High School athlete win the "most popular athlete" contest now being conducted by the Bijou Theater and be awarded the handsome silver loving cup that goes to the winner?

Early returns from voting in the contest, which is being conducted in connection with "The Collegians," serial picture of college life which is running every Wednesday night, would indicate that Smith is the favorite. Early compilation of votes, appearing in the Bijou Theater advertisement in this paper today, shows Smith is holding a lead.

Every Wednesday patrons of the theater may vote, using a ballot which is printed in connection with the Bijou advertisement. The Universal Co., which made the film and J. T. Hibbert, manager of the theater, are giving the cup to the athlete who has the most votes at the end of the serial, which runs ten weeks. The cup is on display at the Jobe Bros., store.

CHENEY PEARSON SUMMONED MONDAY

Cheney E. Pearson, 54, highly respected citizen of Jamestown and retired farmer, died at his home in that place Monday morning at 11 o'clock. He had been confined to his room for three years, following a fall when he broke his hip. His fatal illness began Saturday morning and his death was caused by infirmities of age.

Mr. Pearson's wife preceded him in death twelve years. A daughter died in early life. Two nieces, Mrs. Ward Shely, Jamestown and Mrs. Ulysses G. Ferguson, Pearson's Station, Fayette County, are the nearest surviving relatives.

Mr. Pearson was a life-long member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the residence, in charge of the pastor, the Rev. L. D. Vesey, with interment in Jamestown Cemetery.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE A FEW YEARS MAKE!

No, Tessie, this isn't a suggestion for your next Halloween costume. We believe and hope that the expression on the other young women's face is that of amusement and not of disgust. Because styles will change and she'll probably look just as funny ten years from now. But, be that as it may, she is correctly attired for spring of 1927 and has the advantage of being comfortable and far from the grotesque, as the sister beside her.

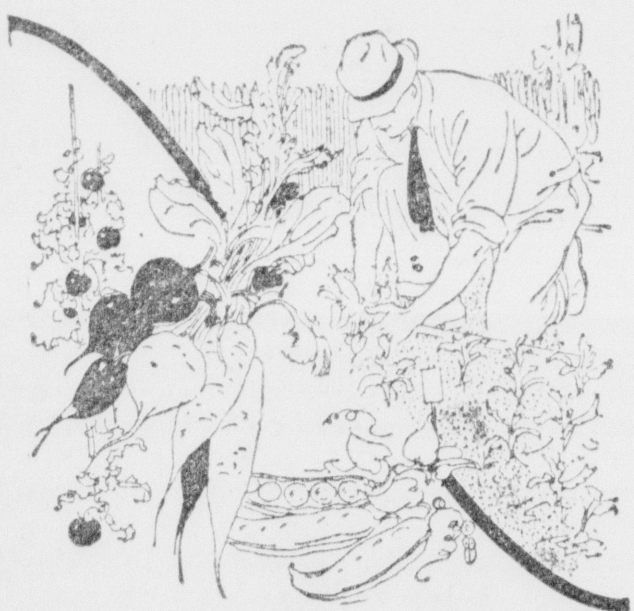

The lady in the trick get-up was snapped on Main St., ten years ago, as an exponent of what was then in feminine fashion. The long, tight-fitting outfit was known then as the "hobble skirt" and never was a costume better named. Remember, they had to build special streetcar steps and the papers printed stories daily about the casualties among women who tripped while getting up a curb, breaking their bones, etc.

The Theatre

A forecast of smart Spring clothes was given in the last issue of "Theater Magazine" by the well-known Nash Sisters, Mary and Florence, who will soon appear together in a new drama.

Miss Mary Nash wore a red and white foulard coat and pleated skirt, topped off with a Burgundy blouse and chic red flower. A fetching combination handkerchief dangles from the pocket of the coat. She also appears on the street in an unusual sport suit of brown and white check cloth, with beige crepe blouse and flower to match. Miss Florence Nash wears an ivory and black foulard three-quarter coat, fagoted and reversible with a two-piece accordion-pleated tiered dress. She added a smart purse to the ensemble, of similar material.

Lois Moran, dainty motion picture star, has a dinner dress of black chiffon, with flouncing and hertha collar of Chantilly lace, worn over a slip of silver lame. Her wardrobe also includes an evening gown of flesh-colored chiffon worn with a lame wrap of silver and rose, trimmed with silver fox. She has also a gown of ivory colored lace with insets of ivory antique satin. With a simple two-piece frock, of blue velvet jacket and saia skirt, she wears a coat of gray kimmer, making a smart outfit.

Looking over the stock of Xenia shops, we agree with the spring style forecast of Grace Corson, style editor of "Motion Picture Magazine," who says that blue, all shades of it, from light to dark, will be the most popular color for the coming season. We also agree with her second choice of red, also in all shades, with honey-beige and green, next. Two and three tone effects of blue, red and green, with hats, gloves, purse, shoes and hosiery in contrasting colors, will be worn all fashion authorities, declare.

Xenia shops carry out the edict of Miss Corson with felt as the leading material. Nothing seems to have been so successful with motion picture stars and fashionable Xenia women alike, as the close little felt hats, and women in general are not ready to easily relinquish so smart and comfortable a style.

Hollywood is still wearing the lapel flower, and the advance spring styles show gay nosegays much in prominence to carry out the color combination. Women of the movie colonies are carrying purses to match and harmonize with their shoes. The latter will be of lizard, alligator and snake-skin. Hosiery will be a little darker, and honey-beige is thought to be the leading shade. Gloves remain plain, with an occasional return of the longer glove of soft suede, crushed at the wrist and buttoned.

TRY "VINCO"—A BED-TIME PHYSIC

HARMLESS! RECOMMENDED FOR OBSTINATE, CHRONIC CASES WHERE BOWELS HARD TO MOVE.

"VINCO" works—always effective. The best evidence of merit is the fact that druggists have sold millions of boxes without advertising. "VINCO" is harmless and does not gripe or sicken.

No man or woman can enjoy life with a sour, sick or bloated stomach, a torpid liver or constipation. For quick relief try Old Reliable "VINCO." Made of herbs, roots and barks (no dope). Acts gently and empties bowels where laxatives fail.

Lay aside nasty salts, dangerous calomel and harsh physics. Get a 25c box of Old Reliable "VINCO." Take a tablet tonight! Do a full day's work tomorrow! —Adv.

Formal SPRING OPENING

Spring is here! Not only does the calendar show that in a few more days it will be ushered in officially by the weather man, but the soft, warm sunshine, the greening grass, the songs of early birds and the first tiny blossoms all proclaim the same happy fact. With the coming of Spring comes also the desire for things that are fresh, new and beautiful—new clothing — new furnishing for the home — new automobiles— everything new to match the shining newness of the glorious Spring days.

In this annual Spring edition the merchants of Xenia present the opportunity to satisfy the desire for that which is new and to do it at prices that cannot be excelled in value giving. Read this edition carefully—note the splendid offers in the attractive advertising — and learn how completely equipped the Xenia stores are to meet your every Spring need.

WHAT to WEAR and How to WEAR IT

By LUCY CLAIRE
Favorite Fashion Adviser
of the Smart Set.

In all fabrics, from substantial worsteds to sheerest chiffons, in all designs and on all occasions, I see the same decided preference for pleats. Accordion pleats, knife pleats, box pleats, inverted pleats, kick pleats—their style does not matter, but pleats there must be. I think I have told you before that there is a certain amount of common sense and skillful designing responsible here for our frocks must maintain the lines of a close silhouette and at the same time they must provide freedom of movement. It is this combination of advantages that the fine and closely-pleated skirt achieves.

Wool crepe, sometimes known as crepella, achieved instant popularity here following its introduction by many of the French designers. The sport frock at the same time giving a trim line about the hips. In heavier materials I think it is always advisable to have the pleats stitched down so that there will be no possibility of a bungle. Printed silks are being worn a great deal right now—in fact, they have developed into an all-year fabric. They are comfortable to wear—just the right weight under a coat, easily packed for a week-end jaunt, and by the elasticity of our mode, they are adapted to such a variety of occasions. Last season most of these silks came in colorful, bold, conspicuous patterns. But these patterns are passe now and in their stead we have the fine all-over pattern—either a polka dot, fine checks or cross-bars, and frequently a tiny floral motif like the bud or small blossom of a flower.

The little frock in the center is of printed silk crepe in one of these new patterns made up in the two-piece mode we like so well. The accordion-pleated skirt has suggested a trimming of pleats in the round collar and double jabot. A plain band of material at the hem of the skirt as well as at the termination of the blouse neutralizes the effect of too much pattern.

The frock at the right, you will immediately recognize, is suitable for more formal afternoon occasions than the center model because of its lace trimming. A wide band of ecru lace set just above the hem of the pleated skirt, another band at the waistline, short insets in the sleeves from waist to elbow, and a tiny band within the collar, achieve wonders in lending a touch of formality to this costume.

I have just touched briefly upon the use of lace today so to

AN EASY WAY TO LOSE FAT

The right way to lose fat is by combating the cause. By correcting a gland which largely controls nutrition. No abnormal exercise or diet is required. Simply take Marmola Prescription Tablets, four a day, until proper results are accomplished.

Marmola is the scientific method. It has been used for 19 years. The normal figures that it brings are seen in every circle now. And the use has grown, through those results, to very large proportions. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. Each box contains a pamphlet which explains the results you see and feel. Go get it now. Learn what others know about it. You will be delighted.

morrow I am going to devote my entire article to the use of lace in our mode.

SPRING MILLINERY USES ALL MATERIALS

Soft, velvety felts! Milan hemps, crocheted viscos, even Bankoks among the straws. These are the outstanding materials in spring hats, according to Xenia milliners.

There are simply tailored sport models, clever ribboned models for street wear, and the flower trimmed and gaily-colored hat for more formal occasions.

The leading spring colors are monkey, violet, Castilian, gooseberry, gentian, meadow pink, Mother Goose, and black. The models are strikingly different, new and original. Xenia buyers have just returned from New York and have the last word in millinery to pass onto local buyers. The Xenia millinery stock is offered almost simultaneously with their advent on Broadway.

No matter what your style or color preference may be, you can find the hat to please and become you.

MRS. MARY LEES IS CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary Lees, 51, widow of Jacob Lees, died at McClellan Hospital, Tuesday morning at 2:30 o'clock. She underwent a serious emergency operation last Thursday and never completely rallied.

Mrs. Lees, whose maiden name was Miss Mary Griffin, was born in Lexington, Ky., and came to Ohio with her family when eight years old. She spent most of her life in Columbus and Washington, C. H., and moved to Greene County, fourteen years ago. Her first husband was Lewis Ward.

A sister, Mrs. Archie Dean, of Yellow Springs and a brother, John Griffin, Springfield, are the closest surviving relatives.

The body was taken to the Dean home in Yellow Springs, Tuesday afternoon. Funeral services will be held at St. Paul's Catholic Church, Yellow Springs Thursday morning, the hour to be announced later.

Tailored Costume Still The Thing For Spring

The tailored suit is the thing! Glance through any style magazine or newspaper and you will find this fact to be true.

The styles for the spring of 1927 tend to emphasize the tailored costume more than ever. The phrase "tailored costume" does not always mean the tailored suit and hat with footwear of plainer style, but the simpler type of dress, with harmonizing accessories with simplicity of line. But the tailored suit will continue to attract devotees to tailored lines and these people will have an answer to their desires with the coming fashions.

We don't know the particular reason for this sudden trend toward the tailored. But we suspect that it is largely due to the fact of increased number of women in business or public life and the demand for simpler costumes in their respective positions. And then, the tailored costume is good in the majority of cases and occasions and the majority of women feel absolutely at home in this becoming style. The double-breasted suit is one of the leading factors in the spring wardrobe. Suits of this type may have skirt of the same material or of a contrasting color or shade, to carry out the ensemble. Skirts are both pleated and plain and with the close-fitting jackets the outfit is indeed smart. But with the tailored costume, there must be no frills and fussiness. The tailored blouse must carry out the idea of the general costume, the hat must be plain and close-fitting and the shoes, of quiet design and shape. A bright-colored boutonniere sets off such a costume, or a raly-colored handkerchief, subtle peeping from the pocket may add the right effect.

COLLAR-TO-MATCH SHIRT STILL GOOD

A well-known clothier is the authority for the statement the collar-to-match shirt is more than holding its own and will continue a big seller through the spring and summer months.

Several interesting combination-cloth shirts have been developed. For spring, also, the pleated shirt should make a good showing, the new varieties on display revealing many distinctively smart color combinations and attractive patterns.

Character seems to be finding its way even into shirts retelling at low prices, and the sustained effort on the part of the manufacturers to provide the trade with patterns and colors that need no apologies assures a demand.

WINK RESULTS IN NEW TRIAL MOTION

LIMA, O., Mar. 15.—Because a juror "winked knowingly at an attorney" attorneys filed a motion for a new trial in the suit of R. O. Hinkle against Amos Thut.

The "winking episode" was made known by attorneys after $588 of a claim for $800 had been allowed to the plaintiff by the jury, which refused to entertain the counter claim of the defendant.

Carry a Spare?

Do you, fair one, carry a spare? Stores are now selling women's hose in sets of three instead of two, and extra ones may be carried in this fashion, to be changed in a telephone booth or wherever opportunity affords, whenever a run or hole develops.

Warns Middle-Aged Women To Watch These Danger Signs

Thousands of women at the changing time of life are in serious danger—because of poisonous waste matter accumulating in the system, polluting the blood stream and overworking the heart and kidneys, often resulting in chronic hepatic torpidity, gall bladder inflammation or even gall stones.

The symptoms—danger signs—that should be closely watched are dizziness, headaches, shortness of breath, gas in stomach and bowels, pressure or sharp pains in right side that often shoot through to the back, coated tongue, bad breath, lack of ambition, weakness, nervousness, and nights of restless misery.

Failure to heed "these warning signs" in time may mean months or even years of miserable ill health and perhaps a dangerous surgical operation!

Everyone near or past middle life should guard against hepatic torpidity or any form of gall bladder trouble. And in the opinion of the writer, one of the best things in the world for conditions of this kind is the inexpensive name, use of Klax-Ko tablets, which Sayre's Drug Store or any other good drugist supply on a binding guarantee to refund their cost, if genuinely beneficial results are not obtained inside of a week! "Klax-Ko" tablets have brought new life and health to hundreds, and they must positively do the same for you or their use will not cost you a penny. Try them today.

COLONIAL DRAPERY FABRICS

Of Universal Appeal and Varied Use

Though the winds may ride roughshod over the garden's first offering, these blustery days are the ideal time for planning and making the new draperies and hangings you will need for spring. Keep in mind our Colonial Decorative Cretonnes—they are smart and the quality is of the best. Or there is the novel and practical Colonial Glazed Chintz, so much in favor this season. Come in and see them soon; there is far more value in each one of these fabrics than their moderate price suggests.

GALLOWAY and CHERRY

FELTS MAY DISPLACE STRAWS FOR SUMMER HAT WEAR IS SAID

Fall and winter clothing seemed to run toward lighter colors with numerous novelty weaves to carry off these brighter shades with an agreeable air that spells smartness, as well as style, and local clothiers say these combinations will carry right on through spring and summer.

No freak models are being handled this spring, as even those designers, who, in other years, favored styles that were in questionable taste, have decided to take no chances with their inspirations along these lines, confining themselves mainly to the type of suits and overcoats a man will buy and wear.

In hats it is prophesied that felts will continue to be the vogue this spring, particularly since the manufacturers have provided large quantities of light colored felts almost featherweight and comfortable enough to suggest that there may be something after all in the thought that straws may show a decline when the thermometer goes up.

Certainly, clothiers say, the last summer or two have found many young men wearing felts even in the warmest weather, and since the manufacturers have been able to turn out hats sufficiently light in weight, plus color attractiveness, it will be interesting to see what will develop.

Brims for the spring hats are decidedly narrower; the best shades are light gray and tan with the snap variety continuing to hold. Both raw and welt edges are considered good. The derby, dealers maintain, made a remarkably good showing for itself last winter, despite the adverse criticism it received.

A year or two back the man wearing one, if not quite conspicuous in a crowd, was still lone enough to hold the observers eye. The proportion, it is predicted, has grown abundantly today and will undoubtedly continue to do so when spring buying sets in.

Lighter designs are expected to be the best sellers and the new stocks show many agreeable novelties in keeping with the season.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, aniseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

Test of Burning Gas For Cooking Purposes

An almost infallible test of whether the burners on your cooking appliances are giving you the best value for the money you pay for gas is the appearance of the flames.

When these flames burn evenly and the color is a light blue, you are getting almost perfect combustion with the largest amount of heat for the gas consumed.

YELLOW WASTEFUL

But if the flames are irregular and some of them are yellow, you can be sure that your burner is clogged in some way—possibly by particles of food that have dropped on it. A good cleaning will save you money.

Should the flames burn yellow or red all around, or should it blow, the air mixture is not right. Regulate it by the shuttles on the intake valve, and the valve itself.

A little attention to these simple rules may save you a not inconsiderable sum in the course of the year.

BLACK AND WHITE OFFICIAL BUT OTHER COLORS APPEALING TO WOMEN HERE

Despite the fact that black and white was broadcast as the official combination for spring, other colors and combinations are beginning to attract the feminine eye and vie for favor. We admit that there could be no more attractive or admirable combination than the aforesaid black and white, but women will change their minds, even to styles. Many other colors can be added as a touch to the black and white costume and the same colors seem to become the majority of women. But as a departure from the easily-chosen black and white, other colors and mixtures are offered to appeal to those who refuse to absolutely follow the dictates of authorities.

There is one thing to be said against the black and white combination—that it can easily become tiresome and although employed in hundreds of different ways, the fact remains that just the two colors meet the eye and leave little else to be noticed. For this and many other reasons, colors and shades this year run the gamut of the color scale and every woman should be satisfied, for once!

WOMEN INFLUENCE HUSBANDS TO GOOD DRESSING IS SAID

One leading manufacturer recently ventured the opinion that better dressing among men is due mainly to the insistence of the women folk that their husbands should all pay more attention to their wardrobes.

The remark may have been made jestingly, one clothing expert says, but he believes there is a great deal of truth in it—a little thought will satisfy you that the manufacturer hit on the right idea when he made the analysis. Every man may not dress with painstaking attention to detail in order to please one woman—or more, but it is altogether likely that without this influence the importance of dressing well would seem less vital than it does.

Years ago clothes used to frown on the woman who accompanied her husband and aided him in making purchases at the stores, dreading the arrival of the couples bent on purchasing under the misapprehension the lady would probably be difficult to please.

Variety To Distinguish Milady In Spring Styles

Xenia women need have little fear of having their spring outfits a repetition of other women. No two women need to look alike, whether it be in colors, combinations, design or ensemble.

There is a variety of colors, materials, combinations, and designs from which women may choose, and whichever of the different details shown is chosen, she may rest assured that their costumes will be in agreement with Fashion's dictates.

There can be no composite picture of the woman of fashion for the spring of 1927. Style leaders have left the choice of the various details of the feminine costume to the individual taste, only offering details that are bound to attract the majority of women, as is the annual custom.

Whereas the hats worn this spring, may be noticed to follow similar lines, there is a style for each type, with colors and combinations that suit the individual. There are the simply tailored sport models, clever ribbon trimmed models for afternoon wear and the flower trimmed hat for dressy wear. Tailored models for sports wear, dress models for afternoon and formal occasions, pert, jaunty styles for the young miss and smart, youth-giving models for the matron.

While some colors seem to predominate, there is a wealth of colors and shades for frocks this spring. Miss Spring of 1927 may choose, a dark, serviceable dress, or again she can select a light shade, or combined with various colors.

Her coat may be of a bright, attractive plaid, or again it may be a dark material, with smart fur collar and cuffs or of a plainer style.

Her footwear, may be light or dark, or a combination of both. She may wear oxfords, pumps, strapped slippers, depending on the type of her general costume. But her hose must be light!—preferably the nude tints.

SPRING FLOWERS AND SHRUBS

All kinds for early spring planting, strong thrifty plants. Seasonable cut flowers for all occasions. Artistic design work.

RED PIMPLES HURT AWFULLY

On Arms. Itched and Burned. Cuticura Heals.

"I had pimples on my arms. They were small at first but later became large, hard and red, and hurt awfully. The pimples itched and burned and after about a week would scale over. My clothing irritated the pimples, and if I scratched them it caused the trouble to spread."

"I had pimples about a month when I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Wilena Elder, R. F. D. 4, Box 13, Perryville, Mo., June 17, 1926.

Use Cuticura to clear your skin. Soap 25c. Ointment 25c and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

Just AMONG US GIRLS

by Kathryn Kenney

"TRY, TRY AGAIN"

Marriage is getting to be like steak; if it isn't well done you can send it back.

It used to be that nothing but an ax would get you a divorce. Today you can buy as many chances as you can afford.

In the old days you lived with your mistake and introduced him as "my error!" Now you can be a grass widow and re-sold every spring! And there are a lot of "young blades" out every spring, too.

A man is a fool to marry a sweet young thing when he can get the benefit of an older wo-grow during the courtship days? His wife would see through the disguise the minute he started to lie.

When a girl puts her best foot forward before marriage a man puts on her galoshes. Later on he trips over it!

Marriage, to be well done, should be done often, and look at the "ill death" gives us relief! guarantee! There are a few lucky persons who marry at eight- een and think all women are alike, but the majority wish they'd or- dered something different!

Most men have several wives in man's advice and alimony. This is the age of specialization, and some women go in for husbands and come out with several!

If you draw a man who uses up the cream every morning you don't have to stand such cruelty. Just give him notice and he'll notice you for the first time in years!

Divorce or murder is unavoidable as long as people refuse to give their right names until after marriage. A woman may be bored to death but she doesn't die during the engagement period.

And what man will "give his face a rest" and let his beard

Paris cutting loose. In fact, the main item on the marital menu is the "French chop." It doesn't take long, but it takes long green!

It's gotten so that the parting kiss has to be thrown across the ocean. A man not only supports his wife—he imports her, now-days!

Divorces can be obtained so quickly that you have barely finished calling the lawyer before he is taking the phone bill off the amount of your alimony.

But anyway, you will live to fight another day—and with another woman!

HAYNES IN LINE FOR DRY CROWN UNDER NEW ENFORCEMENT LAW

By FREDERIC WILLIAM WILE, exclusive dispatch. Copyright 1927. WASHINGTON, Mar. 15.—Ohio pointed if Roy A. Haynes fails to Inherit the commission of prohibition created by the new enforcement law.

Secretary Mellon is expected to name the head of the bureau, henceforward to administer enforcement, almost any day now.

Haynes' friends declare that the best argument for his appointment to the job is that the known enemies of prohibition want somebody else to have it.

The former Ohio editor has held the thankless post of principal Volsteadian longer than any other man associated with the service since Uncle Sam ascended the water-wagon. President Harding made Haynes federal prohibition commissioner nearly six years ago. No one knows the ins and outs of the tortuous enforcement game a tithe as thoroughly.

Haynes has a "constituency" that believes in him wherever ardent dries do congregate. He has stuck to his work, as all the world knows, under a myriad of disheartening conditions, including the meddling of politicians. His retirement at this juncture would not be hailed by dries as an omen of good for the cause they espouse.

Two names are prominent among those in the running for the new commission, in addition to that of Haynes—E. C. Yellowley, prohibition director at Chicago, and J. D. Pennington, director at Pittsburgh, a former naval officer.

This little village in Wales has the longest name that mapmakers have ever had to cope with. It's a resort town, and because of the difficulty of tourists in pronouncing it, local officials are considering altering it to Llanfair. Welch names are notorious jaw-breakers.

A Girl's Critical Age

READING between the lines, it takes a mother or sister to divine the needs of a girl just budding into womanhood: "My sister was not very strong and had been taking all sorts of pills and stuff for constipation. She was fourteen and of course embarrassed with pimples. So I bought her a large bottle of Syrup Pepsin. She has had no constipation since, her complexion is good and she is much stronger, healthier and happier. Now I always recommend Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin." (Name and address will be sent on request.)

Has Brought Up Entire Families

Syrup Pepsin is a mainstay from infancy to full growth. Sour, bilious stomach, headache, coated tongue, colds, feverish daily ills—all vanish. Children play right after a dose. Mothers stop their own terrible sick headache, indigestion, constipation. Makes old folks happy, contented. Truly a family medicine in its highest meaning. Get it today—any druggist, anywhere.

For a free trial bottle send name and address to Pepsin Syrup Company, Monticello, Illinois.

HER MAN BEATRICE BURTON

FOREVER MATED

author of "Love Bound"

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR, who looks like a flirt but isn't one, has been engaged to RANDALL PHELPS for a year, when he asks her to break their engagement. He tells her that he has fallen in love with her best friend, FAY SHIRLEY.

Sylvia, heart-broken, gives him up, greatly to the satisfaction of AUNT AGONY, who has brought her up. Aunt Agony insists that Sylvia is a lazy good-for-nothing and advises Sylvia to marry PETER WILK, a well-to-do bachelor several years older than the girl.

As the time draws near for the June wedding of Fay and Ranny, Fay seems less and less eager for the marriage. She admits that she and Ranny don't care as much for each other as they thought they did—that what they took for a life-long passion was just a flirtation. And Sylvia discovers that Fay is seeing a great deal of a former sweetheart of hers, EDDIE CARTER.

On the 10th of May, which is Sylvia's twenty-second birthday, Peter gives a picnic supper for her. Fay and Ranny arrive late, both in wildly hilarious spirits, occasioned, they said, by "syncopated" gin.

The crowd plays hide-and-seek in the dark woods, and Sylvia finds herself paired off with Ranny Phelps. Suddenly, to Sylvia's utter amazement, he puts his arms around her and tells her that he still loves her and always will.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER VII

In the inky darkness under the trees, Sylvia smiled and her throat shook a little with a sign of pure happiness.

If there were any heaven on earth for her, she knew that it was right here in Ranny Phelps' arms, with her head pressed down on the pocket of his flannel shirt and the sound of his heart beats in her ears.

What difference did it make really if he had held Fay there, too—and not so long ago, at that? Nothing mattered except that he had left Fay and come back to her—that he loved her.

In the throbbing stillness she put up her hand and laid it against his face with a lovely tender gesture.

"You do like me a little bit sometimes, don't you, Ranny?"

He held her tight. "Always, sweetest, thing in the world."

"And you're very, very sure that you're all over your crush on Fay?"

He kissed the top of her head. "Cross my heart, I hope to die," he swore, solemnly, and then laughed at her childishness.

"Then—" Sylvia drew a long breath. "then—why don't we run away and get married—right now, this very night?"

She was going to take no more chances of losing him—as Aunt Agony often said, "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

She pulled his face down to hers and kissed him on the mouth. "How about it, old sport?"

"Fair enough!" Ranny answered, recklessly. And so the thing was settled for good.

Like a pair of thoughtless runaway children, they went stumbling through the woods hunting for the road where Ranny's car was parked.

When they finally did find it, it was filled with gin bottles and glasses, orange rinds and cigar ends. A little pocket-flask of Fay's "Quebec Fleur" perfume lay broken on the floor and her beaded bag was thrown on the seat.

"Some party you two must have had before you got here!" No wonder you were so late!

Sylvia began and then stopped—she would not be jealous of Fay. She would not—she would not!

Ranny was hers at last—and she was going to forget that he had ever belonged to Fay Shirley.

She picked up the little flask and threw it into the bushes at the side of the road and swept the broken glass and the fruit rinds into the road. Then she put Fay's beaded bag into Eddie Carter's car.

As she turned away from it a faint sound of music came from the center of the woods where the fire could be seen—a dull red glow—through the trees. Someone was playing a ukulele and singing the sad little bit of jazz that was the hit of the moment:

"I wonder where my baby is tonight, I wonder why my baby doesn't write—"

For some hidden reason it made Sylvia suddenly remember Peter.

"I suppose he's wondering where I am this minute," she said to herself, and ran back to Ranny, who had climbed into his car and was sunk into the corner behind the steering wheel.

"I'll be back in a couple of minutes—I forgot something," she told him, and was gone.

When she reached the circle of light around the fire, the first person she saw was Peter. He was sitting on a log and he and Sally March and the Man from Yale were singing in unison. It was the Man from Yale who strummed on the ukulele.

The minute Peter saw her he got up and came toward her, singing the last words of the silly, wistful song: "She didn't treat me fair."

She didn't treat me fair. "And I know I shouldn't care."

"But I wonder where my baby is tonight!"

She had always thought Peter Wilk homely, and so he was. But there was about him something so wholesome and decent and dependable.

Sylvia had never realized until this moment how much she liked him and how much she was going to miss his friendship.

She looked up at him, wondering how she was going to tell him what she had to tell him.

"Peter," she said, and held out her hand, "will you wish me luck?"

"Wish you luck?"

She nodded. "Randall and I are going to be married tonight!"

Her eyes were starry with excitement and happiness in the flickering light from the bonfire. "I wanted you to be the first to know it—don't tell the others!"

If she had slapped him squarely in the face she couldn't have startled him more. He stepped back, without a word—just looked at her.

The sound of the ukulele and the song had stopped when Sylvia got back to the car.

They had driven a little more than an hour when the car began to slacken speed.

"Full of carbon, probably," Ranny muttered, thickly. He had his right arm around Sylvia and was driving with the other one.

His voice was sleepy and when Sylvia glanced at him she saw that his eyes were half closed.

"I feel dozy," he remarked when they had gone a quarter of a mile farther. "What do you suppose ails this bus?"—for the car was sliding to a dead stop.

He got out and went to the back. "We're out of gas," he called. "What do you know about that? I wonder how far back that last gas station was?"

Sylvia raised her arm and looked at her wrist-watch. "Ten minutes after two!" she cried. "Did you have any idea it was so late?"

Ranny laughed. "Me—I haven't any idea whether it's late or Tuesday!" he said, foolishly. "I'm tired—gin always makes me sleepy."

He turned on his heel and got back into his car. Feeling very much like an Indian squaw, Sylvia followed him. There was nothing else to do.

"This is some honeymoon!" Ranny said, presently. "A sleepy bride-groom and an automobile that won't go—and now that I come to think about it, we haven't any marriage license, either. Do you mind?"

Sylvia shook her lovely head. She didn't care. She didn't care what she had or what she didn't have, so long as she had Ranny Phelps. She didn't care what happened to her, so long as she was with him when it happened.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," he said, presently. "It's too late to get a license tonight, anyway. And no self-respecting minister or justice of the peace would marry us at this hour, anyway—so we'll just sit here until it's light and then I'll trot down the road and get some gas."

It wouldn't be safe to leave you here alone, now, and besides I'm too tired to budge. So if you don't mind, sweetheart—"

He drew her close to him, laid his head down on her shoulder and was almost instantly asleep.

Sylvia sat very still, looking out into the moonlight.

Her shoulder began to ache after a while and her arms and legs, in their cramped position, went painfully to sleep.

But she herself, was wide awake—and happier than she had ever been in her life before.

Sylvia and Ranny were married the next morning at 11 o'clock.

They were married by a justice of the peace in a little village about 30 miles from here—the sleepy village of Hillsboro.

And afterward, when they came out into the brilliant May sunshine they sent two telegrams—one to Aunt Agony, and the other to Ranny's mother.

"Now, then, we've done our duty and can forget the rest of the world for two solid weeks," he said to Sylvia as they climbed into their car. "Where do you want to go for your honeymoon, Mrs. Phelps?"

Sylvia blushed with the pleasure of hearing her wonderful new name, and her violet eyes danced like stars.

"Oh—anywhere!" she laughed, "but first of all I want to buy a toothbrush and some clean clothes. And then I want to go to a hotel and take a bath and make myself fresh and beautiful for my husband!"

"You shall have all that—and more. But you can't make yourself more beautiful than you are at this moment," Ranny answered. "I've never seen you half so pretty as you are this minute, dirty-face!"

"That's because I'm happy," Sylvia whispered, and kissed him on the shoulder of his coat, much to the amusement of two women who stood, having their morning gossip-fest, on the street corner. "I'm so happy that it—it frightens me!"

It did. A dozen times in the week that followed, she caught herself up when she was kissing Ranny or holding him close in her arms.

"I mustn't love him like this!" she told herself, "because if he should stop caring for me it would kill me!"
